MASSACHUSETTS is sending calico and cotton stuffs to England. Cheap labor vs. cheap labor.

THE London Times has been sued for libel by the Co-operative Credit Bank. That paper had denounced the concern as a disgrace to the city.

San Francisco will have to put up pretty freely during the present month to rebuild the burned hoisting works of the bonanza, which is proper, for she reaps the lion-share of the benefits.

J. M. SINGER, the sewing machine man, lately deceased, left three wives, twenty-eight children and $13,000,000. Wonder how he found time to invent a machine.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln is now reported to have fared recovered from her insanity. She will hereafter make her permanent home with her sister, at Springfield, Illinois.

A FRAIL sister and her temporary paramour have been attempting suicide as a graceful wind-up to a spree in Elko. The female was but little hurt; the man, though thoroughly pumped, lies in a critical condition.

THE Pinney Investigation at Mare Island has involved the examination of fifty-odd witnesses and the piling up of five hundred pages of testimony. Whether it will be printed nobody knows. It is said that the fact is brought to light that Pinney's bogus certificates foot up $950,000.

FINDLEY & Co.'s AFFAIRS.—The San Francisco Alta of last Saturday says that it was authorized to state that the bank of Findley & Co. would resume business in Grass Valley in sixty days, and perhaps earlier. The resumed business will be on a sounder basis than ever.

WHEN General Grant visited Salt Lake, Elder Cannon waited on him and wished to present "President" Brigham Young to him. General Grant declined the honor of introduction to the "President" of any church or society, but would be pleased to be introduced to any reputable citizen of the United States.

FROM the Enterprise we learn that the safe of the Ophir—a small Tilton & McFarland—was opened Tuesday, and its contents found to have been preserved in excellent order, though the safe was subject to flames and long-continued heat. Among the papers were some that were very valuable. All came out in perfect condition, except that some of those that lay on top in the heaps, were a little smoked. A small lump of amalgam tied up in a rag, came out just as it was put in. No perceptible evaporation of the quicksilver had taken place.

NOTHING new from the Pacific. No other survivors have yet been heard of, but it is hoped that the disaster may not be so bad as at first reported. Goodall, Nelson & Perkins consider it almost impossible that with first-class facilities in the way of life-boats, rafts, etc., all should have been lost. It is believed that within a day or two many may be accounted for incoming vessels. A number of cabin passengers are supposed to have been on board, not included in the published list. Among others is Mr. Hastings, of the well-known Front street wholesale liquor firm of Crane, Hastings & Co., who telegraphed the night before the steamer left that he would start by the Pacific. It is feared there may be many similar cases.

A PAIR of Kentuckians, a man and wife, recently put up at a hotel in Chattanooga, Tenn. The man was eight feet in height, and his wife three inches taller.

ROOM FOR US ALL.

During the past Summer there has been a steady flow of immigrants to this Coast—so great has the influx been at times that it would seem as if a panic had stricken our Eastern cousins and sent them rushing toward the West. The immigrants, for the most part, are people used to toil and labor, and among them are skilled artisans—just the kind to build up every new country. The expansive plains of California, Oregon and Washington, offer superior inducements to people who are not afraid of work, but who will till the land, utilize the water-powers and in short, locate permanently. Only working people will succeed; the gentleman will starve where his brawny-handed brother will live comfortable.

This immigration is rapidly filling up the broad acres of the Pacific Coast, for the people are spreading out through the country, locating farms, building homes, erecting shops and in short, settling up the vacant spots. The thirty thousand who have located here these last eight months will do much in the way of advancement of property, and social standing. Let them come until this Coast is as thickly inhabited as are the Eastern States; until machine shops, flour mills, factories, etc., line every stream and until towns spring up like mushrooms all over. Let the hardy yeoman come, say we.

AND ANOTHER.

We had hardly got through the feeling produced by the loss of the Pacific before another comes to hand: The Galveston steamship "City of Waco," arrived at New Orleans from New York last Monday, and was anchored outside with the fleet of vessels. At 1 o'clock Tuesday morning she was discovered to be on fire. A strong northeast wind was blowing, with showers of rain. The passengers, officers and crew took to the ship's open boats at 3 o'clock and passed through the fleet. The sea was so high the other vessels could render them no assistance. The last seen of the open boats they were drifting to the westward down the coast. Since then nothing has been heard of them, and fears are entertained that if the boats are not swamped they are driven so far from land by the wind that the small supply of provisions and water will give out and the passengers be starved to death. A steam tug has been sent in quest of them. The ship and cargo are a total loss.

THE latest gambling story comes from Council Bluffs, Iowa. Seven-up was the game and a drunken man one of the gamblers; he lost his money and put up his five year old daughter as his last stake, said stake being agreed to, the game went on and at last stood five for the father and three for his adversary. Adversary's deal. Don't father king, ten, seven and tray of trumps, adversary gave him one on the ace, deuce, jack and four, made high, low, jack and the game, won the little girl and took her home. Bystanders declare the girl is better off as the father has played seven-up so long he's n'te up. Moral—Don't put up your little girl as a stake at seven-up.

A TEXAS exchange gives this picture of a local Maud Muller: She stood in the centre of a potato patch and was vexing the ground with a hoe. About twenty summers had passed over her head, which seemed never to have been combed. She couldn't have borrowed a currycomb to subdue that head of hair without first depositing collateral to have it repaired after she got through with it. Her face resembled a pretty mask made of mud, and her eyes sparkled through a couple of cracks like diamonds. A peculiar and winning grace attended her every movement, and had fortune been kind to her she would doubtless have shone as a bright and particular star among the most attractive of her sex.

IMPROVEMENTS COMPLETED.—The Donner Lumber and Boom Company have expended eight thousand dollars in the improvements of the channel of the Truckee river since the month of August. These improvements are now completed and the river made as good a driving stream as it is desirable to have it. This work has been done under the superintendence of Mr. E. J. Brickell, of the Truckee Lumber Company. The river has been improved all the way to Lake Tahoe and is probably the best stream for driving logs on the coast.—Truckee Republican.

Bury Me By the River.

We received yesterday morning, through the Postoffice, a communication from our bucolic friend and poetess, "Agatha," a few touching verses which she says she dashed off "while under a cloud." The poem was entitled:

"BURY ME BY THE RIVER."
And goes on as follows:
Bury me by the river,
Where the water murmurs low.
Now we pause right here to ask the author if she is dead? really dead, or does she want to be buried alive?—There is no river near except the Truckee, and its waters are murmuring pretty high just now, but if the English ditch will do for a river, we will attend to the job. She then goes on to say:

Bury me where the willows
In their graceful beauty grow.
Bury me where the sunset
Lingers with its brightest gleam;
Near the margin of the river
Lay me by the running stream.
We will do it if it is possible to procure a horse and hearse. A funeral cortege with oxen hitched to the mourner's carriage will be awful, you know. She then further remarked:

Let no marble shaft or stone
Mark the spot where I must lie,
Lay me 'neath the moss and fern
With the river sweeping by.
All right; we could not afford a marble slab, even if she wanted it, and expect it will be difficult to find a piece of ground "where graceful willows grow, the sunset lingers near the margin of the river, by a running stream (no still water will suit, and beneath the moss and fern," in this land of sagebrush, Washoe canaries and zephyrs, but we will try. She wants a cemetery lot all to herself, too:

Not where many sleep in numbers
Would I have my resting place,
For alone in life I wander;
And in death would leave no trace.

We hardly know what is meant by "leaving no trace," unless she is a harness-maker's daughter and compelled to stitch tugs for a livelihood, and her work is so poor she wants it buried with her; but it makes no difference—we will collect every trace, breeching and hemstap on the premises and bury them, as she requests. She wants more attention yet, for she adds:

Lay me where the moon's soft rays,
On my grave will sometimes fall,
And the withered Autumn leaves
O'er my breast will make a pall.

First she wanted to be buried where the "sunset lingers;" now she thinks "where the moon's rays fall" would suit her better. But if the willows grow there, fern and mosses will not—any botanist knows that—and willow leaves ain't worth a cent for making a pall, but that is her lookout. She winds up thus:

Lay me where the Summer breezes
And the starlight's silvery beam
Will make the robins gently warble
While they sing my requiem.

This is too much; we can't go to all this expense, unless she remits a money order to pay expenses incurred in finding the kind of a spot desired. "Agatha," cheer up! Eat a square meal of corned beef and cabbage, and split wood or do a large washing and instead of wanting the robins to sing a requiem over your grave, you will prefer to have them made into a potpie for your dinner. The hard times have made you melancholy.

FIRE MEETING.—In answer to a call a large number of citizens assembled last evening at the Reno Opera House to take under consideration matters of interest concerning the formation of a Fire Department. Meeting organized by electing B. B. Norton as temporary Chairman and Wm. Walker as temporary Secretary. The Subscription Committee, through the Chairman, Morris Ash, reported $2,826 subscribed, exclusive of the benefit from the social dance ($50). Carried that none shall be admitted as members of the organization, unless they have subscribed, until after the organization is perfected. A list of sixty-four members was read who had joined the fire company, and such of these as were present voted for officers: For Foreman, J. L. McFarlin, Morris Ash, Mr. Ash declined. Mr. McFarlin was elected unanimously by acclamation. For First Assistant, Morris Ash and N. C. Hammorsmith. Mr. Hammorsmith declined, and Mr. Ash was elected by acclamation. For Second Assistant, L. Marks, the only nominee, was elected by acclamation. For Recording Secretary, Wm. Walker, elected by acclamation. For Treasurer, J. E. Jones and Jas. H. Borland. The company then proceeded to vote for the respective candidates with the following result: Thirty-one votes cast; Jones, twenty-four; Borland, seven. The following gentlemen were elected as Trustees: B. B. Norton, M. C. Lake, Wm. Duck, T. K. Hymers and J. C. Hagerman. A Committee of three were appointed to draft By-Laws for the company: Wm. Walker, C. A. Richardson, N. C. Hammorsmith. Carried that the Chairman, J. L. McFarlin, be added to the Committee. Mr. McFarlin said that he could get Virginia No. 4's engine for $800. The old Subscription Committee were discharged by a vote and the following elected in their places: J. L. McFarlin, Morris Ash, R. S. Osborne, J. E. Jones and Wm. Caughlin. The company will be known as Reno Engine Company No. 1. Adjourned to meet at 8 o'clock.

WIDE STREETS.—Virginia is agitating the all-important matter of wide streets as a surety against extensive fires. Reno was laid out, we are glad to say, with a view to this, and as a consequence every one of her streets are wide, and in several cases lined with trees—each of which will do much to stop a fire. In the case of the recent fire, in which all the houses in the line of the fire were taken until West street was reached, the width of that spacious street is what saved Reno from being wiped out. The water nor the men could not stop it while the houses were in close proximity. Wide streets and shade trees prevent extensive conflagrations when everything else fails.

SHIPMENTS.—Since Virginia City has commenced to build a prodigious amount of lumber has passed over the crooked railroad. The V. & T. boys here have shipped daily on an average of fifty cars of lumber alone, and notwithstanding this heavy shipment yesterday morning found ninety-three cars in the yard still loaded with lumber awaiting shipment. In addition to this the amount of merchandise shipped has also been immense. Two car loads of machinery for the Ophir have gone through and several more will shortly follow. Fred was right when he said they were doing a prodigious amount of work now.

CHEAP BUT GOOD.—There are only three daily papers in the entire State of Nevada—the JOURNAL, the Winnemucca Silver State and the Virginia Chronicle—that charge only twenty-five cents a week subscription. All of the rest are held at the high rates of fifty cents. We believe in placing the price so that all can afford to take the paper. And as a consequence our subscription list is constantly growing. The cheapness does not cause the JOURNAL to deteriorate a particle in general news or local matter.

CARELESS.—The American people are noted for their carelessness in most things, but particularly so in the simple matter of stamping letters. Not a day passes but what several of these are found in the Postoffice here. Now every one knows that a letter will not go without the necessary stamp, so there can be no object in writing it and then neglecting the stamp. By a little care much delay and vexation can be avoided in this one small item.

FULL SIZE.—The Virginia Chronicle appears this week in its full size—the first time since the fire. It is thought the Enterprise will do likewise within a day or two, for its type, presses, etc., has arrived and are now being arranged. The Footlight also appears as bright and saucy as ever. We welcome them back to their usual size. Much success to them after their sings.

ENJOYABLE.—The dance given by the Terpsichorean Club Tuesday evening was a very enjoyable affair. The Reno Opera House was full to overflowing, and all seemed happy. Our special reporter was so taken up with the pretty girls that he failed to send in a report until too late for yesterday's paper. The fire department will reap about $50 from this hop.

We do not wish to cause a wild stampede from Reno, but it is our duty to state that Mrs. Mary Livermore talks of establishing a "bureau" to send West 63,084 superfluous females of Massachusetts, and marry them to our surplus bachelors. Stop them at Salt Lake, somebody.

PAINT IT.—The yard engine got so near the fire the other night that the paint has been blistered and peeled so badly that it impairs its look a great deal. Old 48 does good work as she is, but it would add much to its beauty and to Al. Lyman's pride to paint her nicely.

A LETTER for Miss Alice White, Carrol, Per. No., is held for want of proper address. We give it up. No wonder Postmaster Jamison wrote a big "where" on that envelope.

THREE cars of oysters and several of live stock went West yesterday. California people are bound to eat, hard times or not.

ALL members of the Reno Terpsichorean Social Club are desired to attend a meeting called for this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

THANKSGIVING DANCE.—The Home Circle Social Club have already taken the initial step toward getting up a dance for Thanksgiving—the 25th instant—and they propose that this shall be a very pleasant affair, and to this end will not leave anything undone.

CONTRACT LET.—Mr. Wm. Thompson, the contractor, has let the building of the State Prison wall, which faces Reno, to Larken Richardson. See the announcement and caution elsewhere.

SCALES that will weigh 30,000 pounds are advertised for sale by Wm. Thompson. Any one wishing such an article can ascertain particulars of him or of Manning & Duck.

RESUMED.—After a suspension of eight months the Daily Humboldt Register again flings its folds to the breeze. May it find much honor and a full purse the result of its venture.

The regular weekly prayer meeting of the Methodist Church will be held at the parsonage to-night. All invited.

FOR SALE.—Nels. Hammond has a house for sale. Inquire of him for particulars.

Sole Agents for the Celebrated

DAVIS BROS. PATENT

COMBINATION SPRING PLATFORM,

For the State of Nevada.

The Best Carrying, Easiest Riding and

Most Durable Wagon in Use.

The best carrying because of perfect Springs, and bearings at proper points to give the greatest strength.

Easiest riding. A Wagon carrying 1500 lbs.
rides as easy for one man as the best Phaeton.

Most durable, because the combination of the Springs is such as to give perfect elasticity to the gear, thereby entirely obviating the sharp side motion and consequent strain on the Wheels and other parts of the Wagon, allowing the Wagon to pass over all irregularities of the road without jolting or cracking the box, or jerk, or inconvenience to those riding. The binding of the circle, a necessity with all other Platform Wagons, is entirely obviated, allowing the Wagon to follow the road without crowding
the team from side to side.

Our Wagons are manufactured from choice material, by the best mechanics, thoroughly painted, with fine finish and trim, and warranted.
If you want a Family Wagon, a Peddler's Wagon, Market wagon, or a Wagon for any of the purposes for which the Platform or Democrat
Wagon is generally used, see and try these Wagons and you will use no other.
